All Inc! is a EU-funded project that reunites teams from eight different countries who share a vision of, and a concern with, inclusive education.

The logo consists of the letters 'I', 'N', 'C', and an exclamation mark. The 'I' is a thick green vertical bar. The 'N' is a thick blue shape with a diagonal stroke. The 'C' is a thick purple shape with a curved bottom. The exclamation mark is a thick red shape with a dot. All elements have a slight shadow and a textured, brush-like appearance.

INC!

It brings together pupils, (trainee) teachers and the wider school community to build LGBT+ friendly schools. The project is active in Belgium, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Poland, the Netherlands, Spain, and the United Kingdom.

Building LGBT+ friendly schools
across Europe

At UCA we take pride that a special Rector's Delegation entrusted with matters of equality and inclusion was promoted to the top level of the University's organisation, and as such is prominently featured on our main web portal. This is relatively uncommon in the context of our region's universities (where equality and/or inclusion are often smaller units within more diversified departments).

To note, "Inclusion" has been placed on equal footing with gender equality since the current governing council took office.

This Delegation is responsible for the university-wide four-year “Plans for Equality between Women and Men” –of which the second is currently under execution (2019-2023)—; numerous reports and protocols have been produced, and the calendar of initiatives and events is abundant.

A School for Parents, counselling services for students and staff, and dedicated workshops are other ways that this Delegation ensures that permanent attention is given to raising awareness on gender issues, and in this way “securing the rights and equality of, and freedom from discrimination against, LGBTI persons and their families” (as expressed in its mission statement).

All four members of the team participate, in various capacities, in the Master's degree on "Gender Studies, Identities and Citizenship", which has existed for 10+ years and has received several important awards for innovation, excellence and commitment to gender equality.

The programme is firmly rooted in both the theoretical research and the intervention methods in gender studies, with modules ranging from migrations, family and work relations, anthropological and cultural approaches to gender and sexuality, to health, violence and criminal law (with the social sciences leaving some room for the humanities –literature– where two team members, Asunción and Rafael, share a module).

Asunción leads other theoretical and historical contents; and, importantly, she is one of the programme's founding members.

Rosa, the programme's specialist in research and intervention methods, has supervised projects with innovative approaches to educational issues, often beyond the scope of the regional/national system, since many students come from Latin America, thanks to a special scholarship scheme.

A few recent titles showing the range of research and intervention topics supervised by Rosa and/or by Asunción:

“The impact of the Instagram phenomenon on gender stereotypes”

“Cybercontrol in adolescent couples: a gender violence perspective on WhatsApp”

“Co-opting trans identities, and its consequences, in web 2.0 discourse: the Twitter case”

“Political practices and public space disputes: Cádiz’s ‘Feminist Assemblies’”

“Women, reparation and mental health: a case study in Caribbean Colombia”

“Life experiences and perceptions of heterosexuality among UCA students”

“An approach to the trans rainbow in secondary education: a case study”

“Co-educational films: fiction or reality?”

“Educational shortcomings and needs in gender-related matters in adolescence”

#ALL IN! The hashtag #ALL IN! is written in a bold, hand-painted style. Each letter is a different color: # is purple, A is red, L is yellow, L is yellow, I is green, N is blue, and G is purple. There is a red exclamation mark at the end.

All Incl promotes inclusive education by bringing together pupils, (trainee) teachers and wider school community to build LGBT+ friendly schools. All Incl is active in Belgium, Germany, Netherlands, Spain and the United Kingdom.

In each country, a university and secondary school will partner with pupils to co-construct schools and supporting 'tools for schools'. A virtual 'human library' will be built to support wider school community, and with young people across Europe.
