| Study Field | 0222 – History and Archaeology 0220 – Humanities |
| Abstract: (a few lines describing the course that SEA-EU partners can use for dissemination) | This interdisciplinary course invites participants to explore the history and culture of Ibero-America through an enriching dialogue that connects the region's past and future. Employing an innovative approach, the course tackles historical challenges that have shaped identities, relationships, and artistic expressions in Ibero-America from the colonial era to the present. It aims to foster critical thinking and multidisciplinary dialogue among fields such as contemporary and modern history, social sciences, and the arts, promoting a comprehensive understanding of social and cultural transformation processes. In doing so, it not only reflects historical legacies but also encourages reflection on future challenges faced by Ibero-American countries in a globalized world. The objective is to equip participants with tools to comprehend and address current challenges from a perspective that acknowledges the richness and complexity of the Iberian and American past, fostering a shared vision contributing to sustainable and equitable development in the region. |
